*Sueños 2004:
Mejor Vino Elegido Por El Jurado Profesional.
VinOjen 2008*

Take 15 fastidious, professional wine-tasters and wine-waiters, add wines from 32 renowned wine cellars from throughout Spain - and you have a contest that pits you against some of the toughest competition. I took part more for fun than anything, and mainly to see how professionals would respond to the first results of my wine producing dreams. Imaging my astonishment when I learned that Sueños was through to the final round. We are talking about my first attempt as a wine producer and the first vintage made with grapes from a young vineyard. And it culminated with Sueños 2004 winning first prize in the competition. Unbelievable!

As I write these lines, it has yet to sink in that I have actually won. My whole life I have dreamed of producing my own wine. But to win such a prestigious competition with my very first wine was something I had never in my wildest fantasy foreseen happening. Particularly when so many pundits had expressed scepticism at the notion that the Malaga district could produce first-class wine, and especially that a crazy Swede could come up with the idea of attempting it on a lonely mountaintop in Gaucin. Although I readily admit that the original idea was not mine. As far back as Roman times, wine was produced here with great success. And now the circle is complete. Time to place Andalucia and Malaga once again on the fine wine map... wonderful!

Rickard Enkvist

The happy wine producer in the old days - and a great big thank you to my highly capable oenologist and to all the staff who work on the vineyard.
